

RED LIGHT GO

Red Light GO are part of the new wave of electro indie. They produce simple infectious pop songs delivered with a raw energy. Showing a real pop sensibility in their song writing, Red Light Go combine some of the best bits from the 60's, 70's, 80's and 90's and produce a sound which is fresh and modern. The sound encompasses a number of genres, from pop to punk, indie to electro, rock to rave. The band have been likened to, amongst others, Depeche mode, New Order and The Cure as well as up to date acts like The Killers, Kaiser Chiefs and Snow Patrol.

Formed in 2005 the band released their debut EP 'Was It You' and digital releases of 'Take the Picture' on Chromium Records and 'Writing on the Wall' on Moyst Records that year 2006 saw the release of their self titled debut album, live radio sessions on both local and national radio including the Radio 6 breakfast show and Pulse Radio. The band also headlined at some of the regions biggest venues. They also received critical acclaim at various festivals, including performances on the Main stage at Ashton Court Festival and Stroud Fringe Festival.

Red Light Go have recently undergone a few line-up changes and are now working on a follow up album to reflect the energy and rawness of the new line-up.

An Electric Six-esque slice of sinewy electro-pop

(Venue Magazine)

catchy sing-along choruses, and their breeziness is quite infectious

(KS - Evening Post)

an eccentric pop fashion that hints towards Numan and Depeche Mode,

(The Mag)

Hard hitting hooky synth pop with the emphasis on their catchy songs

(CD Baby)
